

Auburn Isaak creates her art while surrounded by the legendary eastern Oregon terrain. With the clear skies, lush vegetation, unique wildlife, and truly breathtaking views of snow-capped mountains and rolling hills, one could not ask for a more inspiring place to create. Auburn's current work is pulled from the fluidity of the nature she surrounds herself with, and she is constantly striving to push the boundaries and dimensions of fluid acrylics and mixed media.

When Auburn is not creating art, she can be found playing guitar; gardening; hanging with her fiancée, Mackenzie, or exploring the landscapes that surround her. Auburn is a native of eastern Oregon growing up in Joseph, OR, where she went on to graduate from Eastern Oregon University in 2012, with a Bachelor of Science degree in art. Auburn Isaak Art was launched in 2017.

Artist Statement

I draw my color palette from nature in its most elusive form; not as defined realism in its physical form, but as I interpret and depict it in my mind. This allows me to use abstract as a function to create the landscape that surrounds me. I choose to incorporate my movement, discoveries, and intuition during my painting process. The paint becomes the medium that interoperates the human experience and a record of that occurrence.
